Hyundai wheel loader recognised Tessenderlo, Belgium

Hyundai Construction Equipment Europe (HCEE) picked up a Samoter Technical Innovation Award, in the Medium Wheel Loaders category, for the new HL960A wheel loader during the Samoter Innovation Award ceremony, held at the Hotel Due Torri in Verona on 23rd January.

The award-winning HL960A machine is packed with high-end features and functions. The machine boasts many leading technological innovations - which include better fuel efficiency, enhanced safety, longer uptime and improved fleet management.

The new A-series has been designed to comply with the European stage V emission levels.

Ballard reaches new milestone Vancouver, BC, Canada

Ballard Power Systems has announced that the company's proton exchange membrane (PEM) fuel cell technology and products have now successfully powered fuel cell electric vehicles (FCEVs) in commercial heavy- and medium-duty motive applications for an industry-leading cumulative total of more than 30 million Km around the globe.

Ballard has a long track record of having its PEM fuel cell technology and products integrated into FCEVs to provide zero-emission motive power for vehicle propulsion. Some fuel cell-powered vehicles have been operating for over eight years and have exceeded 35,000 hours of revenue service with no major fuel cell maintenance requirements.

First award of the year for Haulotte Madrid, Spain

Haulotte Iberica received the Best Machine award at the recent LoxamHune annual convention in Madrid.

Haulotte's HA15 IP articulating boom lift was recognised as "robust and easy to maintain" and suitable for use indoors and outdoors.

LoxamHune is a leading equipment rental company in Spain and Portugal. For the second edition of its annual convention, the company organised its first award ceremony. LoxamHune's staff highlighted Haulotte's after-sales experts, who ensure a rapid and efficient local service throughout the life of the machine.

"This prize highlights that our offer meets our customers' needs," says Guillaume Van Hoeck, Europe key accounts director at Haulotte. "Haulotte is a quality partner that supports companies in their daily challenges."
